

Value	How is this developed?
Democracy	Throughout school life there are many times when we share ideas and information about democracy - i.e. at times of general, local and overseas elections. We also offer opportunities for the pupils to experience part of a democratic process. This will include voting in class or voting for school councillors. The elected school council meets regularly to hear views and collectively consider and take action. Parents' voices are welcomed and encouraged through for example becoming a Parent Governor.
Rule of law	We have a clear set of expectations and rules - 'Terrific values' which are continuously reinforced. Our Terrific values are displayed and regularly referenced. The pupils also learn about the benefits, rewards and the consequences of breaking rules.
Individual liberty	Within the safe and supportive school environment pupils are encouraged to express themselves and make choices. They are also taught the importance of responsibility. Children are strongly encouraged to develop independence in learning and to think for themselves.
Mutual respect	Pupils are encouraged to start by respecting themselves and showing respect to each other. Respect is also strongly encouraged by valuing achievements of all – in class, at play and in assembly. Our Terrific values and expectations of good manners and politeness are also key in this area.
Tolerance of those of different faiths and beliefs	Through our PSHE, RE general curriculum and assemblies we learn about the beliefs and faiths of others and the importance of tolerance and understanding.
